Cameras plea as attacks continue

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

RESIDENTS on Haverhill's Clements estate are calling for CCTV cameras following the latest wave of attacks on their cars.

Vandals caused thousands of pounds damage when they scratched five cars in the Clarendon Road area.

The Gower family, of Argyll Court, faced a £1,000 repair bill earlier this year when their previous car was targeted.

And in between recent Sunday church visits, their newer VW Passat was scratched and they expect a similar bill.

Sharon Gower, 39, a teacher who is currently staying home to care for her three children, said: "We parked the car where we usually do outside Clements Primary School. It was a Sunday between church visits at 12.30pm and 6.30pm.

"My husband Simon found the car scratched down the bonnet and the sides. This is the second time this year and we know at least five neighbours who were affected."

She said the attacks had left her family feeling vulnerable and added: "We want more security cameras, they would act as a deterrent. We are seeing more police around but that's usually after incidents.

"The Clements estate has a bad name, which is unfortunate. We've been here eight years but this makes you feel vulnerable."

Sign up for volunteering

A VOLUNTEER group celebrating its 20th anniversary will be out on the Market Square in Haverhill on Saturday to sign up new recruits.

Haverhill Volunteer Centre staff will be on the square between 10am and 2pm, with leaflets and information on local volunteering opportunities.

The campaign takes place during the 25th anniversary of Volunteers' Week and Haverhill Volunteer Centre's 20th anniversary.

The volunteer centre is a local charity organisation which supports, promotes and recruits volunteers, who work with private individuals and local charity groups.

Volunteers work in local charity shops, help with gardening, driving, befriending the elderly and families needing extra support.

No special skills are needed and the centre will access training for volunteers where possible. You can give as much or as little time as you wish.

Elaine Hewes, volunteer co-ordinator, said: "We have a great variety of volunteering opportunities available. We are looking for volunteers to help with gardening for elderly or disabled residents and any help with this work would be greatly appreciated."

If you have any time to offer, or would like to know more about volunteering, contact the centre on (01440) 708444, or call into the office at the borough council offices. It is open Monday to Wednesday and Friday, 9am until 2pm. Visit www.hvc.org.uk or email info@hvc.org.uk

Stepping out: youngsters set out on their walk.

Picture: Keith Heppell 556724.

Sun shines as young guests walk to party

THE sun shone on youngsters who took part in a sponsored walk in aid of their playgroup – and then enjoyed a garden party at the end.

The 41 children aged between two and four years from the Stepping Stones playgroup left their base at Couplands Primary School in Haverhill and walked along the Railway Walk for about a mile to Howe Road.

They then went to the nearby home of group leader Elaine McManus and enjoyed a garden party, before being picked up by their parents.

Elaine said she had been keeping her fingers crossed for fine weather and although clouds appeared at times the youngsters stayed dry.

It is hoped to raise about £300 in sponsorship from the walk, which will be used to buy new equipment for the group, to be chosen by parents.

Elaine said: "We had some work experience students with us and a great time was had by all.

"The children were brilliant, they walked all the way, not one of them had to be carried. The parents said they had really enjoyed it."

The group has a few places available for September and a waiting list. Anyone interested should contact Elaine on (01440) 761018.

Youths push bin into parked car

FOUR youths pushed an industrial wheellie bin across a car park and into a grey Renault Clio at Haverhill on Saturday night.

The group of three boys and a girl, described as white and in their mid teens, were seen in Keebles Yard, Haverhill at around 10pm.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc James McNee at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Take-away plan for former bakery

A FORMER family bakery will become a hot food take-away if a change of use application to St Edmundsbury Borough Council is successful.

The Ellis bakery in Queen Street was one of the most long-established businesses in Haverhill before it closed its doors on Christmas Eve last year. Mr K Ipek, of Grimshoe Road, Downham Market, Norfolk, has applied to sell fish and chips, kebabs and charcoal grills from the premises.

Vandals throw brick at house

VANDALS used a brick to smash the ground floor window of a home.

The criminal damage happened at Shepards Close, Haverhill at around 1.35pm last Thursday. Anyone with information about the incident should call Sgt Darren Lamboll at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Pharmacy change goes to planners

CHANGE of use from dispensing pharmacy to retail pharmacy is the subject of a planning application made by Christmas Maltings Surgery, Camps Road, Haverhill, to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Cuts in jail food funds a concern

LACK of funding makes it almost impossible to feed prisoners properly at a Suffolk jail, with medical, education and employment provision also inadequate, a report has revealed.

These were some of the findings of the Independent Monitoring Board in its annual report on Edmunds Hill Prison at Stradishall, near Haverhill.

The board commended the governor and staff for the pride they take in their work and said the 371-inmate prison is "a well managed, caring prison regime".

However, members of the board found that there was a constant issue with lack of funding, including reductions, with the budget of £2.10 a day to feed a prisoner causing particular concern,

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

especially for those with special dietary needs.

Healthcare issues were highlighted, including those suffering from mental health conditions, and prisoners being transferred while in the process of receiving medical treatment was a particular concern.

One sick man suffering from stomach cancer had to be returned to a London prison, resulting in an unnecessary round trip of more than 100 miles.

Another prisoner with a heavily strapped leg – who should have been transported flat – was made to stand for the entire journey from London, collapsing when he arrived at Edmunds

Hill and needing emergency treatment.

Dental service was unsatisfactory with a routine waiting list of up to 16 weeks and one prisoner extracting his own teeth to stop the constant pain.

The board also felt the training prison did not have adequate provision from Job Centre Plus to help prisoners back into work.

Their report said: "Too many prisoners are still re-offending and returning to prison. This is not good use of taxpayers' money.

"More has to be done to improve the education and skills in order to equip prisoners with the ability to integrate back into society."

Foreign nationals were still a concern, with prisoners left unaware of their release date or possible deportation.

Couple take on town's top jobs

A WIFE and husband team are the new mayor and deputy mayor of Haverhill.

Cllr Elaine McManus, who was the deputy mayor, was proposed for the role of first citizen by the outgoing mayor, Cllr Les Ager, when the town council held its annual meeting on Tuesday night.

And her husband Paul, who also represents the town's North ward, was selected to be the deputy mayor.

Cllr Anne Gower, who seconded the proposal of Cllr McManus as mayor, said she would bring a "quiet dignity" to the role. No other candidates were nominated.

Cllr McManus paid tribute to Cllr Ager and his wife Jean for the enthusiasm they had brought to the role during his time as mayor.

She said the responsibility of being mayor was not to be taken lightly and acknowledged the help of town clerk, Gordon Mussett, and council staff.

She said: "I will do my very best."

"My whole emphasis will be the town and the people of Haverhill. I pledge to support businesses and individuals."

Cllr Ager, who held the mayor's post for 23 months, handed over a cheque for £1,100 to St Nicholas Hospice.

He said: "I've attended well over 200 events in that time."

"I was at the Maundy service in Bury St Edmunds in the presence of the Queen, I've done a lot of things with the schools and we have raised £2,800 for St Nicholas Hospice."

"The town council has been going about 20 years and I think I'm the first local man to be mayor."

"Everywhere I've been people have said how nice it was to have someone local as mayor."

He wished Cllr McManus, also a local, well during her next 12 months in office.

He said: "I'm sure she'll do things her way, just as I did things my way."

Shoppers share fond memories

AN 80-YEAR-OLD woman who started working for Sainsbury's well before the introduction of superstores has cut the cake to mark the grocery giant's 140th birthday.

Sainsbury's Haverhill store, in Hanchett End, held a host of activities last weekend to celebrate the milestone, bringing back fond memories for many people, who shared them with other shoppers.

The huge cake was cut and handed out by Noel Mahon, commemorative free bags were given away and fresh butter was served from the deli counter, just as it was in the chain's first year in 1869.

Mrs Mahon started work for Sainsbury's in 1948 and had many interesting stories about rationing and the many other changes there had been to the shopping experience in the past five decades ago.

One past employee who came along to the celebrations had a photo of her on opening day at Sainsbury's former Jubilee Walk shop. Another produced a newspaper cutting from 1973. It asked customers then what they thought of Sainsbury's, with one shopper replying that she had saved 73p on her weekly shop by shopping there. Tins of peaches were 12p, and cheese was 24p a pound.

Vandals strike again at estate

Niki MacKenzie, 33, of Belmont Court, said she and her husband had bought a new Renault Scenic in anticipation of the arrival of their baby in eight weeks' time.

The clinic co-ordinator said: "I am very annoyed. It's a brand new car and the back window and boot have been scratched."

"It's the second time this has happened. The first time was around this time last year and that cost £800. It will be similar this time."

The family have lived there for three years and she said it was a "very safe" area until now. But after the vandalism between May 12 and 18, she supports calls for CCTV cameras, especially to monitor the walkways.

Haverhill South town councillor Phillip French said: "It's unfortunate that just a few make life a misery for the majority."

"Most people on the Clements do a hard day's work for a day's pay and there's nowhere near the trouble there was 20 years ago."

A police spokeswoman said: "Following these reports of damage, officers have been speaking to the community and schools in the area. Anyone with any concerns should contact the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100."

She added: "The number of vehicles affected in this spate makes it a very costly crime for those victims."

"Any report of suspicious behaviour could prevent a crime from being committed or assist police in catching thieves or vandals."

No final ruling on police move

POLICE say no final decision has been made on proposals that could see Haverhill's dedicated response officers being briefed 18 miles away in Bury St Edmunds.

Suffolk Police Authority met last Friday to consider plans which could cut the number of locations at which response officers receive their briefings and start their shift.

Cllr Tim Marks, who represents Haverhill on the county council and is a member of the police authority, told the Weekly News earlier this month that he would "fight the town's corner" and had concerns about the proposals for new district policing hubs.

But Assistant Chief Constable Gary Kitching said: "At this stage

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

the proposals are still being considered and no final decision has been made."

He said response times to 999 calls are "excellent" and public confidence in the police is high.

But he said that to remain in line with the nationally-set Policing Pledge, Project Response had been set up to look at how officers respond to and investigate incidents.

He said: "Currently our response officers work from 23 locations countywide."

"The Project Response team is looking at whether this is the most appropriate number of bases from which our response officers receive their briefings and start their shift."

"At present we are looking at reducing these briefing locations to a smaller number to ensure all response officers and vehicles are used to maximum effect."

"The 23 bases are also Safer Neighbourhood Team offices, so all will remain in place."

"The proposals will see response officers briefed at one of the new strategic bases, just like under current arrangements, and then deployed to patrol a particular area of Suffolk."

He described it as an exciting project which could "revolutionise" policing in the county.

He added: "It is designed to provide people with an even better policing service, which efficiently and effectively meets their needs."

Cllr Marks said: "The matter will go out to consultation before implementation."

Pupils treat families to country dancing

TRADITIONAL country dancing was part of a May Day celebration event at a primary school last week.

All 167 pupils at Coupsals Primary School in Haverhill invited along their family and friends to join in a family picnic in the school grounds.

The weather stayed fine, so plans to move the event inside if it rained were not needed.

After they had finished eating, the pupils put on a display of country dancing which they had been practising especially for the event.

Extension is granted for closure

THE closure of a Haverhill house at the centre of complaints about anti-social behaviour has been extended.

A temporary closure order notice was served on 5 Ashlea Close on Saturday, May 9.

Magistrates at Bury St Edmunds yesterday issued a new three-month closure order to run until August 26.

Laura Williams, 20, and her partner, Damian Badcock, are the only people permitted to enter the house under the current order.

Williams and Badcock first appeared at the court on May 11 when magistrates agreed to adjourn the case. The interim order granted then allowed only the pair and Williams' father, Keith, into the premises.

Williams, a taxi driver who is 17 weeks pregnant, had requested that Badcock be allowed to remain at the house until the full hearing took place into the closure order, as she did not want to be alone while she was pregnant.

Suffolk police sought the closure order under the 2003 Anti-Social Behaviour Act.

Police want to hear from you

HAVERHILL residents are being asked in a survey what they want from the county's police force this year.

In its online survey, Suffolk Police Authority is asking a range of questions such as: "How safe do you feel in the area where you live?" and: "What should be the main priorities for police in your area?"

The survey is aimed at collecting residents' views about policing their neighbourhoods. Respondents can also voice their views about the police and the confidence they have in the force's services.

Gary Kitching, Assistant Chief Constable of Suffolk Constabulary, said: "Survey results and feedback can significantly improve policing in your area and will assist your local police in identifying specific issues and challenges that you and your community faces.

By JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"Results are continually fed back to local Safer Neighbourhood teams so they can address specific and immediate problems."

Gulshan Kayembe, chair of Suffolk Police Authority, said: "Overall results are given to the Chief Constable and the police authority so that decisions can be made about the allocation of police resources and targets can be developed to underpin the Policing Pledge and operational control strategy which aims to tackle key problem areas and issues.

"This will help to make Suffolk an even safer place for people to live, work and visit."

The survey is available online at www.suffolk.police.uk or at www.suffolkpoliceauthority.org.uk

It offers a chance for residents to get involved in the way the police consult with the public and to gain a greater understanding of more specific issues which affect their communities.

The Virtual Policing Community sends out short surveys online throughout the year – to join visit www.suffolk.police.uk follow the links for "Have Your Say", then select "Virtual Policing Community".

Police continually seek the views of young people and almost 1,200 completed the online survey through their school.

A revised survey has been relaunched on the police website and can be found by following the links for "Have Your Say" and "Young Persons Survey".

Councillors cost us just £1 per day

Sir, Like everyone else, I have been shocked by the recent revelations about MPs' expenses claims. In the circumstances, and because many people already questioned me about this, I thought the situation in this regard at St Edmundsbury Borough Council might be of interest to your readers. Allowances and expenses claimable by St Edmundsbury councillors are set as a result of recommendations by an independent (ie non-council) remuneration panel. They are publicly available, as are the exact amounts actually claimed by individual councillors. Expenses claimable must, of course, be wholly related to council business, are strictly controlled, and, not surprisingly as we are in such a rural area, are largely travelling costs (though councillors, while in office, do have the use of council laptops and broadband access). I have asked our chief executive to double check the figures, but our initial research reveals that over the last three years the total amounts actually claimed by St Edmundsbury councillors amounted to an average claim of approximately £350 per councillor per annum – or less than £1 per day. I hope this may reassure your readers that St Edmundsbury councillors (of all political parties) are here solely to serve the people they represent, as they are elected to do, and not to seek any personal financial gain. That is how it is – and how it should be. I am not for one moment suggesting that St Edmundsbury councillors are special or get everything right for that matter, but I would like to thank them for their dedication and service to the people of St Edmundsbury. May I also take this opportunity to thank the hundreds of parish and town councillors, voluntary workers and many others throughout Suffolk – and particularly West Suffolk – who do so much for our communities without any remuneration or reimbursement of expenses whatsoever.

■ THIS week's picture, taken from our archives, shows a meeting of a local 'watch' group. Do you recognise anyone in the picture or know what the event was? Do you know where and when it was taken? Send your answers to: Memories, Haverhill Weekly News, 4 Queen Street, Haverhill, CB9 9EF by Tuesday morning, or email editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk Picture: 422573.

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, showed protestors in Haverhill rallying against sugar prices. It was taken in August, 1974. The picture prompted a flood of responses from readers. Carol Welstand, who was pictured in the photograph, wrote in to say: "The elderly man at the front was Horace Eves, a well-known local Labour councillor. "The man on the right of the picture is David Hartley, who I was married to at the time. David's parents, Ron and Evelyn Hartley, became the mayor and mayoress later on in the 1970s. "I'm not sure about the name of the man on the left as this was 35 years ago, but the name Alistaire, a Scotsman who was in the area for a short time, comes to mind. "We three young people were members of the Young Socialists group, affiliated to the local Labour Party. The protest was about the huge rise in sugar prices because of the sugar shortage at the time. One of the market stalls was selling sugar at an extortionate price. "I can't remember if 12p a bag was the regular price or if that was the price it had suddenly gone up to, but I do know that the price had more than doubled almost overnight. It would be nice if it was still 12p a bag, but it was a lot of money in those days when my housekeeping money for the week was just £7, and yes I did manage to do a week's shopping with such a small amount of cash. "It's hard to believe that 35 years have passed since this picture was taken. At the time, David and I were living with my grandparents, while waiting for a council house, the waiting list was long in those days and, unlike today, there were very few private rental properties available. "Our son, who is now 36 years old, was just a baby. I had a copy of a very similar picture for sometime afterwards, but it got lost a few years ago when I was moving house. "We made the placards ourselves and waved them around with all the enthusiasm of the young and idealistic, hoping to get some free publicity and new members for the Young Socialists. "The picture was taken on a Saturday morning in the market place next to St Mary's Church. I don't know if there are still markets there as I moved away from the area in the late 1980s." Geoff Shipp, of North Avenue, Haverhill, also had memories of the protest and sent in several newspaper cuttings about the sugar price rises, including the cutting of the picture, which appeared in the Cambridge Evening News on August 24, 1974. He recognised everyone in the picture, including Alasdair Beal. "Myself and a couple of others were also leafletting in the town. "There had been a branch of the Young Socialists formed just two weeks before and this was an ideal opportunity to get some good publicity. It was David who organised the demonstration. "The story ran for a couple of weeks, even making it to the Labour Party's own national newspaper, Labour Weekly. I seem to remember we got a mention on local TV news too. "Alasdair lives in Leeds and was working in the area at the time and joined the local Labour Party for a couple of months. We still exchange Christmas cards and bump into each other at demonstrations in London. "In retrospect, calling Mr Bailey, the market trader, a 'sugar baron' was probably a bit of a youthful overstatement. I'm not sure either how Harry Eves qualified to be a Young Socialist at the age of 70. "Still, happy days and fond memories." ■ Louise Tabram wrote in with memories of our picture of May 14. She was in the photograph, along with her friends. She said: "There's Katrina Martin and Ashley List in the front and behind them is me and Wendy Morton with her little sister Sally in her lap. The little girl to the right in a pushchair is Leena Betts, and her brother Peter Betts on the slide at the back right. It's very funny to see this old picture. Thanks."

Rotary honours deserving pupils

PUPILS who have gone the extra mile to help others at their school were honoured at an annual awards event organised by Haverhill Rotary Club.

The club's vice president Robert Haylock handed over tokens and certificates to eight outstanding students at its Book Awards dinner held at Haverhill Golf Club last week.

Teachers at six schools in the district nominated pupils who they felt were deserving of recognition for their contribution to school life and other students, not just their own academic achievement.

Head boy Jack Vernon, of Castle Hill Middle School, was described by teacher Rob Dovaston as having

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

made a massive contribution to his school, taking lessons and mentoring younger pupils, as well as playing for Cambridge United and school teams as a goalkeeper.

Shannon Peters had looked after other pupils at Chalkstone Middle School, acting as a mentor and running a before-school club.

Teacher Hilary Lay said: "She is a very, very caring person. We are all very proud of her. She is just ideal as a mentor and model for all the other pupils of the school."

Klaudia Woszczak has proved invaluable during her two years at Clare Middle School as an interpreter for other Polish students, and has also learned to speak French.

Carroll Sturdy said: "She is an absolutely delightful and charming person. She spends a lot of time translating, is very kind and we just love having her around the school."

Karen Gregory said Bartie Shirm was a talented musician who played cello in the Suffolk Young Strings, as well as mentoring younger pupils at Parkway Middle School.

She said: "You could not get a better student, I am very proud to be his head of year."

Kirsty Ashman serves on the student council, as well as other committees at Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College, as well as being a musician, actress, guider and St John Ambulance volunteer. Teacher Krystal Vittals said: "Kirsty is one of life's winners. She always will be whatever she does and we are lucky to have her."

Lauren Towers is vice chairman of the school's Student Council, who sits on student interview panels.

Wayne Lloyd said: "Nobody gets a job at our school without Lauren's approval. She is very perceptive."

Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College assistant head Helen Jones said Jack Lay was "a valuable student who empathises with the feelings of others."

"He is successful and balances a high level of academic work with activities and the extra curricular life of the school."

Alice Atkins made an enthusiastic, positive contribution to the school and was "a credit to herself and the school."

Sign up for night walk

MORE intrepid people are being invited to join in a sponsored night walk in July in aid of a cancer charity.

Marie Curie Cancer launches its Moonlight Walk in Bury St Edmunds on Thursday, July 9, with registrations from 9pm at the town's leisure centre which is supporting the event.

The route of five miles will be through the town, and it is hoped that men, women and children will register to take part to support the Marie Curie nurses working in Suffolk.

There are 38 nurses working in the county, helping patients with cancer and other terminal illnesses to be nursed in their own homes. Every £20 raised pays for an hour of nursing.

The registration fee for the walk is £10 and this includes a free T-shirt and a certificate of achievement on completion.

For a registration form contact Marie Curie Cancer Care on (01284) 747385 or email angela.bussey@mariecurie.org.uk

Cats Protection provides temporary accommodation and care for unwanted and abandoned cats until new homes are found. We also offer information and advice about responsible cat ownership and the benefits of neutering.

Grab a slice of £400,000 grant schemes

MORE than £400,000 is up for grabs for voluntary organisations and community groups in West Suffolk.

The West Suffolk Local Strategic Partnership (LSP) has officially launched this year's round of its two popular grant schemes, the Partnership Fund and the Community Chest Scheme.

This year the West Suffolk LSP has joined forces with Babergh East LSP so that all of Babergh will be eligible for the funding along with applicants from Forest Heath and St Edmundsbury.

Around £400,000 has been set aside for the Partnership Fund 2009, which will be offering grants of up to £50,000 for either capital or revenue projects. Money will be matched by other organisations to help get any new joint projects off the ground.

In addition to the partnership money, the Community Chest Fund will have around £20,000, offering grants of up to £1,500 to projects from voluntary organisations or town or parish councils in West Suffolk.

These are expected to be small-scale, grass roots projects from local playgroups, sports clubs, disabled groups or voluntary organisations.

John Griffiths, chairman of the West Suffolk LSP, says: "We are delighted to be offering grants to East Babergh as well as to West Suffolk this year."

Last year the grant schemes helped 13 local groups, including the Haverhill Youth Volunteering Project.

The application forms and guidance for both schemes are available at the West Suffolk LSP website at www.onesuffolk.co.uk/wslsp

Region still favoured by Eastern Europeans

BY RAYMOND BROWN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

EASTERN Europeans are returning home in droves, but there has been an increase in migrants coming to Cambridgeshire.

However, that movement has come from within the UK, according to latest figures from the Office of National Statistics.

Some 120,000 migrants left the eastern region but another 140,000 came to the area from other parts of Britain.

The latest figures will not come as a surprise to Julie Spence, Cambridgeshire's Chief Constable.

Mrs Spence gained a national profile after speaking out about an increase in migrant crime.

She first sparked debate in September 2007 by raising the issue of the impact of immigration on Cambridgeshire which made it the fastest-growing county in the UK.

It is now home to 93 different cultures and 100 different languages.

Speaking in April, she vowed to continue pressing the Government for extra cash to pay for more officers to deal with the increased population.

Tens of thousands more immi-

On the move: more migrants are leaving the UK as the recession bites.

grants are still arriving in Britain.

The number of migrants returning to the eight countries which joined the EU in 2004 more than doubled last year.

Provisional figures from the International Passenger Survey showed a total of 56,000 Eastern Europeans left Britain in the 12 months to September last year, as the economy began to cool.

That compares with only 25,000 who left the previous year. But because 100,000 arrived, there was still an overall increase of 44,000.

More recent figures released by the Home Office indicated even sharper declines in new eastern European workers as the economy slipped in to recession.

Campaigners complained the overall level of immigration was still high. Net immigration – the numbers arriving minus those leaving – was 147,000 in the year to September.

Andrew Green, chairman of Migrationwatch, said: "This small reduction in immigration brings it close to the official projection so the population of the UK is still on course to hit 70 million by 2028.

"We need action not talking to get our population under control."

But Immigration Minister Phil Woolas claimed immigration levels were "balancing".

County sixth for abortions

THERE were 1,271 abortions in Cambridgeshire last year, new figures show.

Department of Health statistics released last week reveal the county had the sixth highest number of abortions in 2008 of the 14 primary care trust areas in the East of England.

However, North and East Hertfordshire, which includes Royston, had the highest number in the East – 1,743.

Suffolk saw a total of 1,282 abortions among all ages in 2008, while West Essex had 1,087.

There were 111 abortions among under 18s in Cambridgeshire last year. The number of abortions among under 16s in the county between 2006 and 2008 was 75.

Across England and Wales, there were 195,296 abortions last year – a fall of 1.6 per cent on 2007.

Dr Patricia Lohr, medical director of the British Pregnancy Advisory Service, which provides contraception and abortion services, said of the national statistics: "We are pleased to see that these statistics show more abortions are happening at an earlier stage – there has been a 3 per cent rise in the number of under 10 weeks abortions which are now at 73 per cent.

"Ninety per cent of all abortions were carried out under 13 weeks.

"Whereas of later abortions remain comparatively tiny at 1 per cent after 20 weeks, reflecting the complex circumstances in which these are requested."

Police teams help solve crime issues

SAFER Neighbourhood Teams (SNT) in Haverhill will hold two community consultation events in the next few days.

Police will hold a street meeting on Saturday at East Town Park from 10am until noon. They will also hold a community surgery next Monday at the Clements resource centre from 9.30am.

Residents and representatives from local businesses are invited to have an informal chat and discuss their needs, concerns and expectations.

new venue.

"The barn brings new and old together," says marketing manager Roni Griffiths. "It is absolutely stunning."

An open day is being held on Sunday, May 31 where the public is invited to come along and view the beautiful new building. Admission is free and the event takes place all day from 10pm until 4pm, allowing visitors to pop in at their leisure. The White Hart Hotel is a 500-year-old building, formerly a coaching inn, which has recently been awarded a prestigious four gold star AA rating for food and accommodation. Owned by Matthew Mason, it is now in its sixth year. The hotel is a consistently popular venue for business groups, as well as those in search of a romantic getaway, and offers friendly service and high-specification, luxury accommodation. Situated in a separate block, away from the main restaurant, the 11 en suite rooms are quiet and secluded. Traditionally decorated, but with all the modern comforts, they consist of double, twin and single rooms, as well as adjoining suites for families and a fantastic bridal suite.

The restaurant provides another exceptional feature with its "olde-worlde" charm and character. This has also been awarded an AA rosette for five consecutive years as well as a five gold star AA award for kitchen hygiene. The restaurant sources

Employers' support is celebrated by college

THE contribution made by employers to the Young Apprenticeship programme has been celebrated at West Suffolk College.

All the employers working with the programme were invited to a reception at the Zest restaurant, together with college staff including tutors, heads of faculty, and vice principal Martyn Wagner.

At Haverhill, two Year 10 students are currently being helped by Delstar in the town. Director Adam Golding had interviewed several students for these positions.

Harry Marchant, from Withersfield, and Ryan Prigg, from Wickhambrook, were chosen and have just completed their first few days with the company.

Robert Haylock, from Machinapart Engineering in Haverhill, has been supporting Josh Brooks, from Great Cornard, for the past two years and he has been offered an apprenticeship with the company.

Mr Haylock was described as "an excellent employer and mentor for several students during the programme".

A college spokesman said: "FSM Manufacturing in Haverhill has been a solid employer giving our young apprentices school and college work experience during the past few months.

"This has been invaluable to us in this current climate and the college would like to thank Mark Casey and his staff for their continued support."

Michèle Faiers, head of School Link Programmes, welcomed the visitors and thanked them for all the support they have given.

She said: "We are delighted that our Year 11 young apprentices have achieved huge success, with the majority of them gaining apprenticeships or going on to a full-time course at West Suffolk College."

Young Apprenticeships enable school pupils to follow a career path while continuing in mainstream education.

They have to undertake 50 days' work experience and employers usually designate a mentor to work with them.

Are our MPs worth the price we pay?

He may not be sleeping on a camp bed in his Westminster office, as one MP claims she does, but Cambridge MP David Howarth certainly seems to be doing his best to keep his expenses down.

The Lib Dem member lodged one of the lowest travel expenses claims of any of the mid-Anglia MPs in 2007-2008, despite being the only one not taking advantage of the controversial additional costs allowance.

The Weekly News has used figures from Theyworkforyou.com, which aims to give the public information on how much their MPs are spending and what they are doing with that money, to compare our region's MPs' expenses and Westminster appearances.

And while the figures don't detail the hours MPs put in at their constituency offices, surgeries or even their Westminster offices, they do show how many votes and debates they have taken part in.

The row over MPs' expenses refuses to die down. As the Weekly News reveals we've paid almost £1.3 million in expenses to our nine local politicians we ask: are they worth the money? Reporting by LAURA JEAN MORRIS and LEANNE EHREN.

Mr Howarth can be seen using the train from Cambridge to London during parliamentary sessions. By applying annually for a season ticket he managed to keep his expenses for commuting to below £4,400 in 2007 to 2008, with just £10 claimed on car mileage in the same year.

Andrew Lansley, by comparison, with a home in Orwell, claimed not only £21,399 in Additional Costs Allowance (ACA), but also nearly £7,000 in travelling expenses between his South Cambridgeshire constituency and London. Of that total he spent more than £3,000 on car travel.

His example is also followed by James Paice, MP for South East Cambridgeshire, who has spoken in just 19 debates this year, but lodged claims for more than £23,000 additional costs allowance as well as £7,823 for 2007 to 2008 in travel expenses.

Saffron Walden's MP, Sir Alan Haselhurst, has been roundly criticised for his gardening bill claims, but despite being tipped as a big spender his annual total expenses claims of £122,968 actually puts him at one of the lowest cost MPs in the area. However, he put in a whopping £4,502 claim for travel between his Duddenhoe End home and Westminster for 2007 and 2008 despite also renting a flat in one of London's most prestigious areas.

Speaking to the Weekly News last week, Sir Alan defended his decision not to commute to London on a daily basis because he is Deputy Speaker in the House of Commons, which he says would make it unacceptable for him not to be in his chair on time during Parliamentary sessions.

Sir Alan, who is tipped to be one of the front-runners for the recently vacated Speaker post, said: "People have asked why I don't commute, but it just wouldn't be on for me to turn up late and say: 'Oh, sorry chaps, I got stuck on the train.'"

Like many MPs caught up in the expenses furore he maintains that all his expenses were above board and within the rules.

But following a meeting of the heads of Britain's top political parties, claims for items such as gardening and home renovations will no longer be allowed under the second home allowance scheme.

The Weekly News attempted to contact all nine mid-Anglia MPs about the figures. Shailesh Vara, MP for North West Cambridgeshire, Richard Spring, MP for West Suffolk, and James Paice, MP for South East Cambridgeshire, failed to reply.

Tacks strewn over road disrupt charity bike ride

FORMER Weekly News employee Aaron Castell has spoken of his disappointment that a charity bike ride was disrupted by carpet tacks spread across roads.

Aaron, 22, of Chapple Drive, Haverhill, was one of 3,500 people taking part in the Etape Caledonia, over 81 miles around Pitlochry, Perthshire, and he was raising funds for Macmillan Cancer Care.

But tacks were strewn on a section of the race, bursting hundreds of tyres and bringing the event to a halt. Police said it was a reckless act and it was fortunate no-one was hurt.

It is the only mass participation cycle event in Britain where all the roads travelled on are closed for the event and that had angered some locals.

Despite the problems Aaron, who worked in the planning department in Milton before joining Betfair as a Telbet operator in Stevenage, still managed to raise around £200.

He said: "I was one of the first who got stopped and had to wait for the full hour and 25 minutes while they attempted to clear the roads.

"The police then came and escorted us down the descent – it was considered too dangerous as we had stopped for so long and our bodies were so cold.

"For me it was a massive disappointment.

"It was a very enjoyable event and very well organised. I managed to raise over £200 so I am more than happy with that."

Macmillan Cancer Care estimated it would raise almost £250,000 from this year's event to help fund its work.

Council shows off its qualities

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HAVERHILL Town Council has been awarded the prestigious Quality Council status.

The council had to demonstrate that it could reach the standard required by passing several tests to get the accreditation from the National Association of Local Councils (NALC).

It had to show how it serves the electorate by keeping them informed, engaging with the community, preparing annual reports, and promoting local democracy by encouraging people to stand in elections.

Councils must show that at least two-thirds of councillors were elected. They must publish draft minutes of meetings within two months of them taking place and make them available for inspection by any elector.

They must have a website which provides a list of members and officers, details of how they can be contacted and also provide access to the annual report.

To qualify for Quality Council status, councils are required to adopt a code of conduct and provide a training "statement of intent" identifying key areas of training need for both staff and members.

Gordon Mussett, town clerk, said the council was one of 16 out of 800 in Suffolk to achieve the status and one of 700 nationwide.

He said: "The award of Quality Council status reflects the hard work that both members and officers are putting in to provide the best service for the residents of the town."

"The town council sees this award as opening doors in the discussions that will take place regarding the transfer of further services to the town council."

He said the award shows that the council is reputable and it would help in its dealings with partner organisations.

The Quality Parish and Town Council Scheme was launched in 2003 following the Government's Rural White Paper 2000.

Highest honour for star of brigade

MEMBERS of a Boys' Brigade are celebrating one of its numbers becoming the first to win the organisation's highest award, the Queen's Badge.

Joshua Snape, of 1st Haverhill Company, was presented with the award by the Deputy Lord Lieutenant at the Old Independent Church. The award is the highest badge attainable in the Boys' Brigade.

Joshua, 17, of Quendon Place, Haverhill, who has been a member of 1st Haverhill Company since it was formed in 2001, has gained many badges while working towards his Queen's Badge. To gain his badge he has helped out in the company on a weekly basis and undertaken various voluntary work in the community.

Joshua said: "I am very proud of what I have achieved and hope to become an officer of the brigade."

Captain Kathy South said: "I am very pleased for Joshua gaining this award through an exciting and challenging programme of activities and he has shown potential for becoming a brigade officer."

Haverhill Boys' Brigade meets every Friday during term time, 6.30pm until 7.45pm. It offers a wide range of activities to challenge boys between the ages of six and 17.

The Boys' Brigade is Britain's largest Christian uniformed youth organisation working with 70,000 members in 1,600 churches. It celebrated its 125th anniversary in 2008 and has adapted and changed to meet the needs of today's young people while maintaining its core values. For more information contact Kathy South on (01440) 761944.

Footballing legend to meet town fans

FORMER Ipswich Town, Liverpool and Scotland football legend John Wark is coming to Haverhill to meet fans.

The soccer star, who won 29 caps for his home country, will drop into the Rose Tavern pub on Friday, June 5.

During his visit he will be giving a talk on his football career and will answer questions.

There will also be a chance to purchase a signed copy of his autobiography Wark On, priced £18.

Fans will also have the chance to reminisce with the player who rose through the ranks at Ipswich, making his debut in 1975.

He was a member of the young side managed by Bobby Robson which surprised favourites Arsenal in the 1978 FA Cup final, winning the game 1-0.

Wark twice hit the post with shots in the second half of the game at Wembley.

In 1979, Wark was selected to play for his country, going on to win 29 caps for Scotland and scoring seven goals.

Wark continued to play for Ipswich but the side was gradually broken up after Robson left to become England manager in 1982.

In the same year Wark was in the Scotland squad which went to the World Cup in Spain and scored two goals. He signed for Liverpool in 1984 as a replacement for Graeme Souness, who was leaving to play in Italy.

Wark settled into life at Anfield well at first, playing enough matches at the back end of his first season to earn a championship medal. However, he broke his leg in 1986 and missed out on the club's run-in to their only League and FA Cup double.

Visitors to the Rose Tavern next Friday can take a look at his PFA Trophy along with his FA and UEFA Cup Winners' medals, and have photos taken with him.

He will bring along an auction item with proceeds for The Meadows Care Home.

Entry is free and for more information, contact the promoter on itfc@fsmail.net

Students in bloom campaign win recognition

STUDENTS who have used their talents to help Bury in Bloom have been recognised for their efforts.

Certificates were presented to three students of West Suffolk College, in Bury St Edmunds, and principal, Dr Ann Williams to mark three years of collaboration and for the practical help and expertise given to the campaign.

Computing students Rob Rudge, from Haverhill, and Robert Steggles, from Elmswell, had worked on creating a new website for Bury in Bloom – www.buryinbloom.org.uk – while photography student Heather Egan, from Stowmarket, created floral images for display on the large temporary hoarding in St Mary's Square.

Simon Pott, vice-chairman of Bury in Bloom, presented the certificates.

Dr Williams said: "We are pleased and proud to be able to support Bury In Bloom again this year."

"At college we are lucky to have the services of groundsman Russell Gladwish who keeps everything looking lovely."

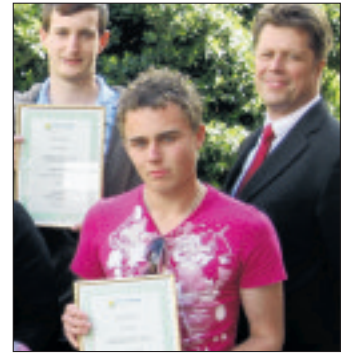

Campaign manager, Julia

Rackowe, said: "Our association with the college goes back to 2007 when video production students made the DVD, The Making of a Campaign, and young people with learning disabilities produced stunning sculptures using recycled materials."

"Every one of these projects has been, or will be, viewed by national and regional In Bloom judges."

There is no doubt they have made an excellent impression in the past and I am confident that this year's efforts will work well in the town's favour when we make our bid for top prizes in the Anglia in Bloom and Champion of Champions awards."

Among many prizes, the college won a gold award in 2008 for the best out-of-town business premises frontage.

Home help service is extended

A SUCCESSFUL pilot scheme which has helped people aged 60 and over to continue living independently has been extended.

Promoting Independence for Older People (PIOP) was launched in July 2008 and over the past 10 months has helped more than 350 people living in the St Edmundsbury and Ipswich areas to continue living in their own homes.

Jointly run by West Suffolk landlord Havebury Housing Partnership and Ipswich Borough Council, PIOP offers a free telephone helpline and visits to elderly people to identify help needed.

This could range from financial and debt advice to adaptations which make living at home safer.

Jeff Hayford, from Havebury

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Housing Partnership, said: "The PIOP service has exceeded all our expectations. We are delighted it has been extended until September, as feedback has shown that it is really making a big difference to people's lives. We would like to remind people that we can help in almost any instance, whether it is help with the gardening, debt advice or simply in making new friends."

The free support is available to people who own their own homes, rent privately, or are living in affordable housing.

Age Concern, Suffolk County Council and Suffolk Supporting People are partners in the service.

Hip Hop festival's final magic number

EIGHTIES icons De La Soul take to the stage this week as a final flourish of this year's Cambridge Hip Hop Week.

One of the most artistic and creative hip-hop acts of all time, the Long Island trio have cast a long shadow over their contemporaries since their debut in the late 1980s.

De La Soul were always seen as a breath of fresh air to the hip hop world with their smooth beats and lyrics that were less abrasive than many of their contemporaries, earning them the monicker "Hip Hop Hippies".

Its three members are men with a myriad of names: Kelvin Mercer being also known as Posdnuos, Mercenary, Plug Wonder Why, and Plug One; David Jude Jolicoeur as Trugoy the Dove and Plug Two; and Vincent Mason who also answers to PA, Pasemaster Mase, Maseo and Plug Three.

They formed in high school and quickly caught the attention of producer Paul Huston, aka Prince Paul, courtesy of their demo tap Plug Tunin. Prince Paul was also sometimes referred to as Plug Four.

The "Plug" nicknames are alleged to come from the numbers that each bandmate's microphone was labeled on the soundboard.

Famed for their quirky lyrics and eclectic sampling tactics De La Soul are also regarded as having made a groundbreaking contribution to both the jazz rap and alternative hip hop subgenres.

In 2006, the group came back to the fore of collective consciousness when they won a Grammy for their collaboration with Britpop darling Damon Albarn's Gorillaz on the single Feel Good Inc.

But their fame was assured from their very first album, 3 Feet High and Rising, widely hailed as a hip-hop masterpiece and also the band's biggest commercial success to date.

Such was the cross-over appeal of its playful lyrics, witty slant and innovative sampling techniques that 3 Feet High and Rising was voted Album of the Year by the veritable bastion of guitar-based rock music NME magazine.

Although subsequent albums have sold progressively less, each has been lauded by the critics, and the enduring appeal of hits such as The Magic Number, Say No Go and Me Myself and I continues today.

Next Wednesday's gig at Cambridge's The Junction, starts at 7pm with support courtesy of Delegates of Culture. All under 14s must be accompanied by an adult.

Tickets are priced at £17.50 in advance, with prices rising on the door subject to availability.

Floral blooms could help save butterflies

Attracting wildlife to your garden is still on the agenda of top designers, as horticultural shows are demonstrating this year, with butterflies very much in the picture.

As certain butterfly species decline, including the High Brown Fritillary, Wood White, Duke of Burgundy and Pearl Bordered Fritillary, exhibitors at Chelsea Flower Show have been promoting plants and habitats to help them.

Show gardens displayed "butterfly mounds" and plantings of nectar-rich, traditional annual bedding plants such as nemesia and cherry-pie plant (heliotropium) to attract hoverflies and butterflies.

A good garden might be visited by 22 species of butterfly and hundreds of different moths each year, depending on where you live.

Yet three-quarters of the 59 resident butterfly species that remain in Britain are in decline, including the most common ones: the large white, small white, red admiral, peacock and small tortoiseshell.

Now PlantforLife, an initiative run by the Horticultural Trades Association to help people make the most of their gardens, has teamed up with environmental charity Butterfly Conservation to launch a public awareness campaign, encouraging people to attract butterflies into their garden.

Butterfly Conservation

by Hannah Stephenson

president Sir David Attenborough said earlier this year: "Almost unbelievably, much of Britain's countryside is a no-go area for many favourite butterflies. Habitat has been ploughed up or become overgrown. Anybody who's been for a country walk recently will tell you butterflies are a rarity."

"Scientists fear that in some areas we're entering a post-butterfly era."

The campaigners have now produced a guide, Making Your Garden Flutter, which offers tips to help preserve these creatures.

Butterflies love heavily-scented flowers, so plant Sedum spectabile and Verbena bonariensis to attract them into your garden.

Nectar-rich plants such as cowslip (Primula veris), bugle (Ajuga reptans), lavender and honesty flowers will also encourage them in. Many good nectar plants are hardy, perennial and easy to grow.

Grow flowers in sunny, sheltered areas, as butterflies will seek out the warmest parts of your garden.

Create shelter for butterflies by planting shrubs and small trees such as common honeysuckle around the edges of your plot, but make sure your flower beds remain in full sunlight.

Keep a good variety of flowers which are available from early spring to autumn in your garden. Plants such as Buddleia davidii 'Harlequin' will give butterflies the fuel they need to keep them airborne.

Early flowers are great for butterflies just emerging from hibernation, such as aubrieta, bluebell, clover, forget-me-not, pansy, primrose and wallflower.

In late summer and autumn some species need to build up their reserves in preparation for winter, so benefit from late-summer bloomers including buddleia, sedum, ivy, Michaelmas daisy, mint, scabious and thyme.

Creating a wild area within your garden can encourage butterfly species to breed. Simply allow grasses and wild flowers which are already there to grow, or supplement them with extra plants. In the first year of growing the wild area, cut it several times to allow the wild flowers a chance against other competitive grasses.

■ Making Your Garden Flutter can be picked up from participating garden centres and nurseries or downloaded free from www.plantforlife.info/butterflies

Further general information is available on www.butterfly-conservation.org

BEST OF THE BUNCH

Azalea

These acid-loving shrubs, which burst with colour in late spring and early summer, are a must if you want to brighten up dull corners – and they also look fantastic as stand-alone specimens in tubs.

Azaleas, which are generally smaller, daintier versions of rhododendrons, can be either deciduous or evergreen. I love the evergreen varieties which are low and spreading, producing sheets of flowers in May. They work wonderfully in pots and many are hardy enough to cope with frost pockets, although you have to choose carefully. Good varieties include Rhododendron 'Blue Danube', a compact, neat evergreen azalea which bears masses of mauve flowers, is extremely hardy and ideally placed in light shade.

Another pretty specimen, which is not as robust and will need a sheltered spot, is R. 'Gumpo White', which grows to around one metre (three feet). If you want some bigger types, try deciduous azaleas, which can flower as prolifically as their evergreen relatives but also have fantastic foliage colour in autumn.

Azaleas come in a mass of colours, from blues and pinks to reds, oranges, whites and yellows. Acid soil is essential, and they are best off in a sheltered site in partial shade. If you don't choose one of the hardier varieties you may need to put horticultural fleece over the shrubs on frosty nights.

Artist goes back to boats for new show

LOCAL artist Helen Wiseman is holding her first solo exhibition in a decade at the Exchange Gallery in Saffron Walden Library.

Helen trained at Falmouth College of Arts in Cornwall as a book illustrator and has now returned to her love of boats and landscapes. All the work is in watercolour and is available as originals or as prints on watercolour paper or canvas.

Helen is also happy to take commissions and has spent the past few years on projects as diverse as wedding invitations to portraits and homes. Susan Carragher, director of adult learning and libraries at Essex County Council, said: "It is wonderful to enable a talented local artist to return to exhibiting." The show runs until June 21 during normal opening hours.

Why sell the traditional way?

Get Estate Agents to value it and put it on the market.

Show people around the property (mostly "nosy parkers" & sightseers).

If no offers received after 2 or 3 months, reduce price.

Show more people around.

Eventually accept an offer at between 5 & 10% off the advertised price.

Hope the sale doesn't fall through (over 30% of sales don't reach completion).

Once price agreed, wait a further 3 months for sale to complete.

Work out how many £000s it has cost you in reducing the price, making mortgage payments, paying Estate Agents fees and legal fees since you started the process (on average, 7 months ago...)

Sell your property the CXG way...

The simple alternative

- Pay no Estate Agent's fees
- Pay no Legal fees
- No further mortgage payments
- Have cash within days (Instead of months)

300,000 will benefit from scrappage deal

THE Government's "cash for bangers" car scrappage scheme will prove to be a great help to the British vehicle industry, Gordon Brown said as the scheme commenced last week.

The initiative allows owners of cars and small vans more than 10 years old to get £2,000 off the price of a brand new vehicle when scrapping their old motor.

The Government and

manufacturers are sharing the cost of the scheme, which will last until the end of February 2010 or until the £300m Government funding runs out.

The Prime Minister and Business Secretary Lord Mandelson chatted to some of the first people to take advantage of the scheme at a Nissan dealership in Mill Hill, north west London, as the deal began.

Mr Brown explained: "This scheme is going to be one that's very popular. We expect about 300,000 people to take it up."

"It's also going to be a great help to the British car industry and it is part of our programme of getting the economy moving forward."

Business Secretary Lord Mandelson also hailed the "cash for bangers" scheme as a "wonderful bargain" for motorists and good news for all those working in the car industry.

The Cabinet Minister said he hoped buyers would take advantage of the scheme that gets under way today, allowing owners to scrap cars and small vans more than 10 years old and get £2,000 off the price of a brand new vehicle.

The Government and car makers are sharing the cost of the scheme, which will last until the end of next February or until the £300m Government funding runs out.

Lord Mandelson told Sky News: "We have put £300 million into this scheme and we want every penny spent on new cars for Britain's motorists."

"It will not just be a great bargain for the motorists, and a great opportunity for them to seize, but of course it will be a great boost for those hundreds of thousands of people who work in, or are dependent on, the car manufacturing sector in our country, so it is a 'win-win' all way round.

"That is why I hope people will go out and take advantage of the scheme."

Although the UK scheme is voluntary, all the major manufacturers have signed up for it and many are planning to continue their own sales incentives on top of the scrappage deal.

Paul Everitt, chief executive of the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, said: "The scrappage scheme is good news for consumers and the UK motor industry alike."

Vauxhall's astonishing Corsa ecoFlex achieves 85.6mpg!

The Vauxhall Corsa ecoFlex: Astonishingly modest fuel use.

WITH a combined CO2 rating of just 105g/km, the latest Vauxhall Corsa ecoFLEX shaves a remarkable 14g/km off the outgoing model's emissions figure, and now achieves 85.6mpg on the Government's extra urban fuel cycle – an improvement of over 13 per cent.

The three-door only Corsa ecoFLEX, Vauxhall's most economical car yet, will pave the way for even more efficient vehicles, such as the ground-breaking Ampera, as the firm reinforces its commitment to reducing CO2 emissions.

On sale now, the new Corsa ecoFLEX has a raft of improvements to optimise its already efficient aerodynamics and 1.3-litre CDTi powertrain, which still produces 73bhp and has performance similar to the outgoing model.

These include a shorter second-gear ratios, plus improved aerodynamics thanks to lowering the Corsa's ride height by 20mm and optimising airflow through its front air intakes. Complementing these changes are narrower (175/70 instead of 185/70) low-rolling resistance tyres, fitted to lighter 14-inch steel wheels with new wheel trims – part of a weight-saving package that cuts the Corsa ecoFLEX's kerbweight by 45kg.

Prices start at £11,295 and – since the Corsa ecoFLEX attracts only 13 per cent Benefit in Kind tax for company drivers – a mere £35 VED annually.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF)

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility.

We pay up to £100

It's a birthday treat for dynamic Dellar

ADAM Dellar blasted 116 on his 19th birthday to shatter Great Yeldham in their Adams Harrison Midweek League AH Cup clash.

Dellar's ton powered Haverhill to 194 for 6 off their 20 overs, their rivals mustering 138 for 7 in the second round match.

Joe Reed scored 86 for Brockley as they cruised past fellow Division Two side Helions Bumpstead, who only managed to score 88 in their pursuit of 159 for 4.

Long Melford had a comfortable win, having nine overs to spare against Balsham. Justin Burton (43 not out) and Steve Hale (28 not out) led the run chase.

Simon Bishop slammed an unbeaten 63 to steer Abington to victory at Ashdon, who had Mike Furze scoring 69.

Sawston, powered Simon Potzer's 58 not out, cruised by Abington II while holders Horseheath eased past Highpoint. David Brown's unbeaten 51 proving crucial against a side boosted by Luke Clayden's 64 not out.

Alex Meddle produced a captain's innings for Weston Colville, scoring 38 and taking 4 for 22 to see off Wrattling Lions, while Babraham passed Castle Manor with five balls to spare.

However, that was nothing compared to the finish at Weston Colville II in the League Cup tie against Babraham II. The scorers were tied at 114 but the visitors went through having lost fewer wickets.

■ Haverhill II are top of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division Seven after winning by four wickets at Dedham.

Set 190 to win after having their opponents wobbling at 35 for 4, the seconds made a similarly lacklustre start and were 50 for 4 before Mick Rinaldi got into his stride, peppering the boundary on the way to a century.

The first team lost by 30 runs to unbeaten Division Two leaders Woolpit, scoring 251 for 7 in pursuit of 281 for 3.

■ An opening stand of 132 between

Stuart Duquemin and Will Earl secured a 72-run win for Abington against Weston Colville in Division Two of the Tucker Gardner Cambs and Hunts Premier League, Division Two.

The pair were in excellent form, Duquemin scoring 60 and Earl 64 as Abington threatened to post a daunting total.

But the rest of the side could not build on the opening pair's partnership, largely due to Fred Scruby's impressive bowling, with the innings concluding on 202 for 7. Scruby ended with 5 for 39.

Weston Colville made a solid start in their innings but once Duquemin had removed Trevor Westley (31) and Joe Robins (29) they rarely looked capable of reaching their target.

Duquemin's 4 for 48 and David Hamper's 3 for 7 ensured they were all out for 130.

■ William Russell and Paul Staley were the stars as they ensured Horseheath's miserable record at Thriplow continued in the CCA Senior League, Division One.

Visiting skipper Gary Ellis spoke before the game of his determination to lead his side to a first win in more than 20 years at Fowlmere Road.

The afternoon began well for the Horseheath captain as he won the toss, but things rapidly deteriorated to leave him with a common feeling of déjà vu.

Dan Goldsmith struck 36 and Alan Ketteridge made 24 as the away side struggled to muster 163 for 9.

Andrew Morris (4 for 28) was the pick of the bowlers and he was backed up by skipper Chris Neild (3 for 30).

Russell showed he meant business by swiping the first ball of Thriplow's reply to the boundary, and he went on to compile 54.

Theo Giasemidis made 42 and Staley remained unbeaten on 52 as the hosts reached 166 for 2 in the 22nd over to leave Horseheath with that familiar sinking feeling.

Graham's out after tumble

Haverhill B 10
Moreton 20 (abandoned)
East Suffolk Summer
League Division Two

A NASTY arm injury to Julie Graham forced Haverhill to forfeit the game. The Haverhill player fell badly, dislocating and fracturing her elbow, and needed emergency treatment from paramedics. She will miss the rest of the season.

The match had started well for Haverhill. With Nina Riley instrumental they took an early lead but their four-goal advantage at the end of the first quarter was eroded and then passed. The club later expressed their thanks to the emergency services for their help.

Haverhill A 39
Ixworth 22
East Suffolk Summer
League Division Two

HEATHER Sangster and Natalie Franklin continued their red-hot form to send Haverhill on their way to another win.

The joint players of the match helped their side stretch away after Ixworth kept them to just a two-goal lead at the end of the first two quarters. However, a change of tactics and tight defensive play, combined with outstanding play from Amanda Stokes, eased Haverhill clear.

Bishops pile on misery

MARCIA Armstrong and Ian Terry picked up Haverhill's only points of the day in the 7-2 defeat at Wickham Bishops.

Details: Marcia Armstrong and Ian Terry won two, lost one; Gill Argent and Stuart Read lost three; Lucy Hardwick and Peter Cannon lost three.

>> GOLF

HAVERHILL charged into the third round of the Tolly Cobbold Cup on Sunday, brushing aside Ufford Park (Woodbridge) in the county inter-club four-somes matchplay event.

They were 17 holes up at lunch, thanks largely to 13 from Andy Craig and Graham Ashcroft, and 12 more in the afternoon session took them to a 29-hole win and a trip to Flempton in the third round.

■ There was a large turnout on Thursday for professional Paul Wilby's fund-raising competition in aid of his Junior Golf Academy. The format for the shotgun start event was teams of four playing stableford, with the best two scores counting at each hole.

This resulted in 90 points for the winning team of Derek Thomas, Charlie Hudson, Mick Warren and Dave Cohen, while a four-figure sum was raised for the fast-expanding academy.

■ Other winners during the week were, on the domestic front, Gerry Wheatley and Pat Kennedy who won the winter ladies foursomes final by two holes.

The ladies from The Suffolk who triumphed 3-2 in the Weston Cup match at Haverhill.
